It is remarkable that the oid Union has ew friends ln power. We have unconditional Unionists, but they mesn only a Uniou of in the enjoyment of reserved rights. We have the fixed determination of the party controling the Federal Government, that there shall be no Union of free and siave States; that every State must conform to the notions of the majority or cease to be States.

The theory leads to the supreme rule of emporary majority; for any resistance to nnonstitutional acts by a State would be war, and by the present theory as soon as war comes the war power does legitimately what, withont it, would be unconstitutional. The theory, it will he seen, makes the Federai Government, not to act under chartered rights and powers, but practically, with supreme authority; for any resistance to an act of oppression gives the Federal Government, by military power, supreme suthority, and places State rights and Individual liberty under its control.

Our fathers, when they carefully prepared the provisions of the Constitution, and scrntinised every word to be sure they were not creating a Government that could run into an nnlimited despotism of a majority, which would soon crop ont into a government of the few, didn't foresee this dodge. They didn't see that this military arm they provided to defend the civil, and be siways subordinate to it, could really do what the civil power had no right to do.

But we are a progressive people, and have found out that the old Constitution was some what vicions in its organization; that it sanctioned or tolersted grievous wrongs, and that, to live, it must be reformed after the model of latter-day sages and saints. The process structure of the Government. We must have something new and better. We repeat, then, that onr old Union has few or no friends in power. The Abolitionists North don't want It and the Secessionists dou't intend to have Union of the old elements at all. Now these revolutionists on both sides, for

While it existed, it challenged the world's admiration. The apprehension was that it was too good to last. That old epitaph: "I was well, wished to be better, took medicine and here I lie," will snit this country hereafter if these extremes have their way. The radical shakes his head and replies, Ah, it's slavery that is the tronbie; it's in danger or there would be no remonstrance. Not at ali. Slavery is not essential to this Union. The States might abolish slavery today and not disturb a single item of the Federal Constitution or a single right of any State. Five or six States have done it since the Federal Constitution was formed. But the Federal Government can't do it without nsurpation and suicide: much less can it lmpose conditions on States which are constituent parts of the Union. When such deeds are done and become precedents, our Federal Government is changed. It will require an entire revolution in its structure and principles, for they cannot consist with these new factions. These factions are both striving to make something other than the old Union. It is a honse divided against itscif, sald one; let us pull it down and rebuild on the doctrine of uniformity and according to our style. No, said the other, we admit that the honse is divided against itself; let us take our half and ourselves; you can do likewise with yours. Sensible people, who fell into the back ground, knew that it was those factions, not the honse, divided; that no better honse could be bniit; that these factions were but wretched cobblers; but what's gone with ail the sensible peopie, who knew they had the best Government in the would, and know it now, North and South? They were a majority once; perhaps may be again.

The New York Heraid has some mallce against Gen. Grant. What for we hardly know: but its existence is evident. Here when that cool soldier has been going on in a plain, every-day sort of way capturing forts. men, gnns, &c., because it is his business, and not for any other reason if we may judge from his calm, phlegmatic, and clear reports. The world has looked on, woudered, and admired this hero in the plain surtont and cigar, so different from the imaginstive pictures of military distinction. What one so unpretending could have done to induce the Herald to put him up as a mark as candidate for the Presidency, we can't see, But the Heraid does it; does it persistentiy; keeps doing it every day, more and in a most reckless and determined Whether General Grant cares for the position or not, we know nothing, but he must view the favors of the Herald as the enticing witcheries of a flend. It is entirely too venal and Indiscriminate in its favors to be either flattering or safe to those who win them Under the circumstances, we think Grant had better keep a sharp eye on the Herald's correspondents, and turn a deaf ear to its editorial blandishments, if he wishes to succeed elther as a soldier or politicisa.

A GRAND PROJECT .- The experience of the iast few years has shown the necessity of looking to our water communications with the East; that it will never do to depend on railroads to carry the vest produce of the West to the Esstern markets. Hence, the territory, net the Union of States, and neople rage for ship canals and river improvements. It is now proposed to improve the Alieghany, and make a connection at or near Buffslo with the enlarged Erie canal, which, with the improved navigation of the Ohio, will make a grand ship canal from Cairo to New York. The Allegheny is now navigable as far as Olean, N. Y., and In high water by its west hranch, French creek, as far as Waterford, Pa., withiu fourteen miles of Lake Erie, at Railroads are useful for carrying passeugers, express freight, and to move the great bulk of the freight on the shortest lines to the water courses. Fionr, grain, and the hog products can he carried Eastward to the seaboard for one-half what it now costs, and all producers, especially lu the Ohio Valley, are deeply interested in having these great improvements made. They would pay good dividends whether nndertaken by private companies or hy the Government. The great Erie canal has always been a source of revenue to the State of New York, and the business has increased steadily year by year with the growth of the great West, and it would be the same with this proposed improvement If carried ont. The Ohio river is occasionally a very nseful stresm, for a few days at a time, but nuless it does better service thau it generally does it might about as weil be dried up. Its lmprovements will cost a good deal of money lt is true, but what of that? It is estimated that it will cost from seven to twelve millions -about as much as is expended on the war in three or four days. A company taking hold of change, it will been, upsets the whole of the undertaking might get aid in some form from the General Government and by ladividnal States, and would stand a far better chance for making fair dividends upon the stock than the great majority of railroad projects.

His. discourse, while it speaks a wonderful Biblical scholarship and an ability to give expression to every shade of thought in the phrase of Holy Writ, while it is in the highest creditable to the patriot, seems wholly unworthy of the philosopher and Christian.

1. "War," says Dr. Breckinridge, "like pestilence and famlne, is an instrument which God employs in the coarse of His adorable providence, and from which, as from all evil, it is His divine prerogative to bring forth good." And so is all evil, whether latent in the human heart or expressing itself in crime; yet bad passions, envy, malice, and all uncharitableness, are accursed of God. Divine will, when it manifests itself in the threatenings of pestilence, is often thwarted by the draining of a morass or the precantions of quarantine; and whereas formerly during an epidemical of a morass or the precantions of quarantine; and whereas formerly during an epidemical visitation men sought deliverance in sack-cloth and ashes, they now bestir themselves and svert disease with the means which God has placed in their hands as they penetrsted into the arcana of science; for it action is often the most effectual prayer. The theory of divine interference in which he seems especially to delight, and the stress which he lays upon the ordination of God hestwed on the Chief Magisfrate, savor strongly of Levitteel blood-thirstiness and the exploded "jure divino." For one may be perfectly consistent with the genlus of the Jewish dispensation, but is in flat contradiction to the law of Christ; and the other is to piead a ceremony and priving the strength of the and the other is to plead a ceremony and privilege enjoyed in common by the pseudo-President and the occupant of the White in surrectionary wars—there are four oppos-ing forces, dismetrically arrayed: right and wrong, numbers and desperate hravery. In alternate combination are the unseen essences atternate combination are the unseen essences found, with the accidents of material properity; uor can it be said of one, that it is the invariable coefficient and symbol of aucher; that right is always a struggling minority, and that error ranges itself on the side of the strongest battalion. Thus much may be averred; that truth, when it wars with pow-erful and legitimized error, is free from that large and necless body of perasites and hypo-crites that wait npon truth trimmphant. But desperate valor, and conscious-assured power are the material antagonistic eiem warfare. For valor there must be when men warrare. For valor there must be when men turn against twice their number, though it he illustrated in the stubboru resistance of a few-heathens in the cypress hogs of Florids, to the benignity of a Christian Republic; and to Illustrate from examples near at hand, and the words of Dr. Breckinridge himself, when he says the insurgents have often fought with heroic courage. But even where the material antagonism are more evenly balanced, as in the encounters of rival nationalties, the rule obtains. An army of invasion is one usually impelled hy a spirit of hanghty assumption; power ris-ing above its shores, and overflowing its neighbors. Rebellion, on the other hand, is the nprising of a faction, physically weak hy reason of its inferiority in numbers, and the shows of war. By the laws of man, when it verpowers a foe, and maintains itself hy force of arms, it becomes a legal thing. What the law of God says on the subject is not so clear. Dr. Breckinridge says: "Of all wars insurrections are the most desolating, offensive to reason and the majesty of God." Yet his own sect did not quarrel with the rehellion of dissenting Eogland sgalnst an Episcopal King, and Jehn, it we may believe the narrator in the Jewish hible, nanreed a legitimate throne and conducted an insurgency observatived by and conducted an insurgency characterized by the most cowardly and treacherous crnelties, under the direct guidance of God through the result of physical forces than the crash of arms that follows the disturbance of that poise of national etiquette known as the "Balance of Power." In the estimate of immensity, what a short step from the tiniest child's quarrel, to cosmical strife, God presides no more directly ever the suppression of rebellion, or over its achievement, than He directs the blows of a viliage bully, or awards victory in a Senate-honse hrawl. We degrade the Godh-ad as we contemplate Him through hopes and fears generated by temp rary ciation or degression. The Divine plan is of wider sweep, and consistent Christians should land. But from so capricious a delty as Divine favor when adored in our national thanksgivings, or Divine wrath as deprecated in fastings and prayer, there can be no more hoped than from that act of idolatrons worship comthen from that act of Idolatrons worship com-manded by a Babylonish King of all nations and languages on the plains of Dnia: "Christ

Man, in expiting over so dreadful a necessity of his failen condition, is the predestined fool of Fate. He invokes upon himself the curse of Isalah—"Woe unto him that calieth evil, good—and good, evil; darkness, light—and sweet, bitter." With a narrow, harbaric conceit, for which we can find a parallel only in the Imperial Palace at Pekin, or Puritan New England, when it revived from the Mosaic History its worse than Draconian code; it stood, to show how black was its darkness before the dawn of a brighter day. The trade of its Kings was war—war without a single amenity to relieve its mutterable horror. Such were the wrongs perpetrated before the face of High Heaven under pretense of Jehovah's lastigation! The genius of the race and institutions was typified in Solomon's Temple—its penetralia consecrated to the rites of a superb and overpowering religion, but its onter walls reared with all the strength that military skili conid devise, so that it stood perfect in its two-fold purpose of temple and citadel. City Council-The Mayor's Contract for the Purchase of Coal Confirmed. Pursuant to adjournment, both boards of the City Council met at 7 o'clock last evening. A few days since the Mayor closed a contract with C. Miller and I. L. Hyatt, of this city, for 200,000 bushels of Plttsburg coal, to be delivered at any place within the city limits between Cable and Fourteenth streets in such quantities as desired, between now and the first of April, at 34 cents per bushel. This contract the Mayor appeunced to the Conneil, and both boards confirmed it.

In the Board of Aldermen an ordinance was passed instructing the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund to sell the coal purchased by the Mayor on contract from Miller and Hyatt, at 25 cents per bushel. Owing to a twothirds vote not being present in the lower board, the ordinance was referred to the Committee on Contracts.

The Mayor sent in a message announcing that he had nominated A. J. Johnson, J. S. Cave and John Bond supernumerary policemen, which nominations were contirmed by the Connell.

In the lower board a resolution was passed instructing our Representatives to urge the passage of an act to amend the charter of Lonisville, approved March 4th, 1851, so that all fines, taxes and forfeitures received in favor of the city be paid into the city treasury to the credit of the contingent fund; that the Mayor shall not receive less than $1,500 nor more than $5,000 per year, and that Councilmen shall receive $2 per night. In the upper board the resolution was referred to different committees.

A number of claims were allowed, after which the Connell adjourned to meet again on Wednesday, the 6th of January, 1864.

A BOARTING HOUSE ROBBED-A LARGE bery, which occured at an early hour yesterand valuables stolen were in the pockets of the gentlemen's pants, which they had hung upon chairs before retiring. One man by the name of S. Winsett lost between three and four hundred dollars in "greenbacks," and several notes, one of which was for seven hundred and fifty dollars, besides one gold and one silver watch. B. F. Turner, Esq., was robbed of one hundred and ten dollars, while a third party, whose name we did not learn, lost seventy-five dollars. There is but little doubt that the person or persons who committed the robbery slept in the house that night, and after stealing what they could get, they quietly left, going out of the front door. These robberies of boarding houses of late have become a common occurence, and strangers stopping in the city will do well to deposit their money in some safe place, and not carry it to their rooms with them at night, as our city at the present time is infested with a large number of professional thieves.

ARREST OF NEGROES FOR INCITING SLAVES TO INSURRECTION .- Yesterday three negroes, whose names we did not learn, were arrested near the fair grounds, having in their possession United States muskets. HOUSE.

The Speaker appointed the following gentlemen as a select committee on Na-lonal Bank: Rust, of Maine; Spaulding and Kelly, of Pennsylvania; Cravens, of Indiana; Hoever, of Massachnsetts; Frank, of New York; Morrison, of Illinols; Thomas, of Maryland; Jenks, of Rhode Island, and Chandler, of New York.

The Speaker laid before the House a com munication from the Secretary of War, in compliance with Mr. Cox's resolution, trans-mitting the report of General McClellan concerning the organization and operations of the army of the Potomac white Commander-in-Uhiet. Mr. Cox offered a resolution that 10,000 extra copies be printed. Referred to the Committee on Printing.

Mr. Fenton, from the Committee on Military Affairs, reported a bill to facilitate the payment of bounties and arrears of pay due for the services of wounded and deceased oldiers. Referred.

soldiers. Referred,

Mr. Schenck, from the same committee, reported a bill to create a bureau of military justice; also, a bill to repeal part of the enrollment act, the sole effect of the bill being to unite the two classes into one; to take effect on and after its passage.

Mr. Ferrando Wood said the enrollment cet was full of defects.

act was full of defects. He hoped that the pending bill would not be acted upon at this time, and moved its reference to the Commitee of the Whole on the State of the Union Mr. Schenck, in reply, said that the Committee on Military Affairs would not report a repealing bill. They, however, were asel incusive engaged in considering amendments to make the act more effective.

Mr. — offered the following preamble and resolution: sive, unjust and unconstitutional, because it takes from the States the command of their militin; therefore,

Resolved, That the Committee on Military
Aflairs be instructed to bring in a bill for the repeal of the act and substitution of some constitutional and just bill for the immediate militing up of our armies.

Mr. Stephens moved an additional and substitution of some Mr. Stephens moved an additional and substitution of some constitutional and just bill for the immediate militing up of our armies.

Mr. Stephens moved an adjournment of the of a joint resolution, adjourned until the 5th of January, 1864. Washington, December 23.

General McCleilau's report was transmitted to the House to day. It consists of 765 fools cap pages, and is divided into four parts. He concludes as follows:

I shall not forget that when I was ordered to the command of troops for the defense of the Capital, the soldiers with whom I had shared so much anxiety and pams and suffer-lags of the war, had not lost their confidence in me as their commander. They sprang to my cail with all their vigor, discipline and courage. I fed them into Maryland fifteen days after they had fallen hack defeated before Washington, varquished the enemy on the ragged hights of Sonth Mountain, pursued him to the hard-fought field of Autletam and drove him broken and discripted accepts.

and drove him, broken and dispirited, across the Potomac into Virginia. The army had need of rest after their experience of battles and marches, with scarcely an interval of re-pose, which they had gone through from the time of leaving for the peninsula to the time of their return to Washington, the defeat in Viginia, the victory at South Mountain and again at Autietam; and it was not surprising that they were in a large degree deathing of the absolute necessities to do effective duty. Their shoes were worn ont, blankets lost and clothing in rags; lu short, the army was unfit. for active service, and an interval for rest and or equipment was necessary.

When the slowly forwarded supplies came I had the army across the river, removed, re-I had the army across the layer, removed, re-freshed and in good order and discipline, and followed the retreating force to a position where I was confident of victory; but when in the midst of the movement and while my ad-vanced guard was actually in contact with the enemy, I was removed from the command.

I an am devontly gratified to God that my last campaign with this brave army was crowned with a victory which saved the nation from the greatest perit hat it had ever undergone, had I not accomplished my puropee.

If by this report the army of the Potoma. is not placed high on the roll of the history of the world, its deeds will enable the nation to which it belongs to know that it is always ready for battle, always firm, steadfast and true. I never called on it in valn, nor will the nation ever have cause to attribute its the nation ever have cause to attribute its want of success under myself or other commanders to any fallure of patriotism in that noble body of American soldiers. No man can justly charge upon any portion of that army, from the commanding general to the private, any lack of devotion to the United States Government, and to the cause of the Constitution and Union. They have proved their featty in much severe suffering, dangers and going through the very shadows of death, while their comrades lay dead on all sides.

Where we fought we have scarcely more isim to the honor of a natious reverence than the survivors to the justice of a nations grati-

The following official report was received by Gen. Halleck to-day:

I have the honor to report that I cut the Virginia and Tennessee railroad at Salem on the 16th inst., and have arrived safely at this place with my command. At Salem three depots were destroyed coutaining 2,000 barrels of flour, 10,000 bushels of flour, 10,000 bushels of soats, 2,000 barrels of meat, several cords of leather, 1,000 cacks of sult, 31 boxes of clothing, 20 bales of cotton, 100 wagons and a large amount of harness, shoes, saddles, equipments, oil, tar and various other stores. The telegraph was cut and destroyed for half a ments, oil, tar and various cher stores. And telegraph was cut and destroyed for half a mile. The water-station, turn-table and three casks were burned, and the track tern up and the rails heated and destroyed as much as possible. Sunk.—Early on Saturday morning the steamer Prima Donna ran upon a sunken coal-boat at the head of Captinn Island, about twenty miles below at his city, and sunk in from ten to twelve feet water. We saw the beat at Parkersburg on Thursday evening, and observed that sho had an unnsnally large carge of freight on board. Among other articles she had some ten or fifteen hundred barrels of flour, which was consigned to Parkersburg. As the railroad depot was filled to overflowing, the four was ordered to Wheeling, consequently the rallroad company will have to bear the loss. The Prima Donna was valued at twenty thonsand do lars, and was partially insured. No lives were lost, and not a man was injured.

PORTLAND, ME., Dec. 23. The steamer Jura, from Liverpool, with advices down to the 10th inst., arrived this morning. She brings an account of the great international fight between Heenan and King, which took place on the morning of the 10th at Tawbridge. King won in 25 rounds, the fight having lasted 31 minutes. The London Times says but little science was displayed on either side. either side.

Heenan's game throughout seemed to be to close and put the hug on, so as to ernsh his antagonist at once, by dashing him violently to the ground. King's tactics were different and more creditable. It is rumored that Heenan's shoulder is broken.

Second Dispatch.—The fight took place this morning near Tawbridge. Klug was victorious, it is reported, in twenty-five rounds, the fight occupying thirty-five minntes. No details are given, but it is rumored that Heenan's shoulder is broken.

The Times says the prize fight was a fair and up one, and cuded in a decisive victory for King. Heenar was badly punished, though he had the advantage in the earlier rounds; but King had more endurance. The fight oc-Cut-led 35 mirutes and 25 rounds.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22. The House Committee on Ways and Means to-day fluished the naval appropriation bill, with but very little reduction from the estimates made by the committee. The committee determined not to meet again until after the holldays, when they will take up the recommendations of the Treasnry, financial and others. The Senate to-day made the Pacific Railroad Committee a standing committee of that body of nine members.

The Senate Judiciary Committee meet tomorrow to take up charges against Senator Hale. More than one lawyer in the Senate and in the House do not hesitate to say they would rather resign their seats than sarrender their professional practice in Washington.

Veterat regiments in the army of the Potomac are to receive their bounty money immediately. The first installments will amount to about $250 per man. The number of men from the army of the Potomac re-enlisted for the war is over ten thousand.
The sentiments of the Seuate respecting the three hundred dollar exemption clause, has wholly changed, and they will strike out the exemption clause, and not insert any amount in it. The feeling generally in regard to the army is that it must be filled up, and the war vigorously prosecuted to the end. Senator Wilson will soon introduce a bill providing for the enlistment of soldiers in the ebelilous States. Persons so enlisting are to enter any regiment now in the field from loyal states that they may select. The desire is to get them into veteran regiments, and at the same time to enlarge the field from which loyal States can draw troops. WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.

The paragraph, ostensibly telegraphed from Fortress Monroe, purporting to give extracts from Richmond papers of the 19th, with re-gard to disabling the Ironsides and two of the monitors, never came over the wires from Fortress Monroe, nor have any Richmond papers of the 19th been received there. So Gen. Butler telegraphed to-night, adding that he believes the whole story to be a canard. The Palladelphia telegrams about Longstreet are also pronounced here to be untrue. HALIFAX, Dec. 23.

SNOW STORM AND SUFFERING ON THE PLAINS.

Providential Escape of the Santa Fe Passengers.

(From the Lawrence (Kansas) Tribune, 13th.) Major Miller, paymaster, and Ira Olds, Esq., his clerk, arrived in Lawrence yesterday moreling, after a long and perflons journey to Fort Larned, owing to severe cold and a terrible snow storm. From these gentlemen we gather the following facts in relation to the

The snow fell from Fort Riley to Santa Fe from one luch to fifteen. It was very cold, and the snow drifted so as to make the ravines almost impassable. The coach on the kley road proceeded to within seventy-five miles of Fort Larned, and there had to stay, and the passengers constructed a sled, and look off the bed from the stage-coach, and, uniting it out the road sled were a being minimal to the road sled were a being the road sled were constructed. nutting it on the rude sled, went on their way to Larned. In many places they had to trive around the ravines, the snow being too deep to get across.

Between Larned and Santa Fe the snew storm was still more heavy. The Santa Fe storm was still more heavy. The Santa Fe coach and passengers were caught out in it, and detained so long that they got out of othe provisions for passengers and feed for the nules. Five out of nine of the mules died. Lient. Dodge, of the Wisconsin battery, tried to get into Fort Larned on one of the nules. The animal gave out, and then the Lientenant tried to get in on toot. He arrived within three miles of the Fort, became Lientenant tried to get in on 100t. He arrived within three miles of the Fort, became exhausted, and laid down. The officers of the Fort were looking out with glasses, and, observing an object on the prairie, sent out assistance. Had it not been for this fortunate circumstance probably the whole of the passengers would have perished.

Lience Larned and Santa Fe there are two hundred and fifty miles without a human habitation, and, of course, trains coming, getting out of provisions, and having no feed, with the snow drifted so that they lose the road, there is but little chance of getting through safe.

Some of the old Indian traders, who have been in the country thirty years, say that they never witnessed such a storm in the month of November before.

Large hads of buffsloes were constantly met with almost paralyzed with the cold. In the daytime they kept a short distance from the coach; but at night, for miles the coach was interrupted by their being in the way, and the driver was continually hallooing at them, like a man driving cattle, to get them on: of the way. A train known to be ont has not been heard from, and it is leared that it has perished.
